Applied Project Management

"9.9% of every dollar is wasted due to poor project performance— that's 99$ million for every 1$ billion invested" (PMI: 2018)

If your objective is not the PMP certificate and you need the know-how, then this course is for you. It is designed for those who need a practical hands-on approach to manage projects from the early phases till closure. It combines theory with practice by using templates, checklists, and tips & tricks to develop a complete project management plan.

Mohammad Sabbouh

PMP, PMI-PBA, PMD

Public Private Partnership Contract Preparation

Encouraging private sector role and participation to realize vision objectives, including localization and improving development investments in infrastructure, utilities, housing and even services requires solid partnership between public and private sector. It all starts from the initial approach to PPP, where the assessment uncovers whether this contractual model is optimum, versus other vehicles or frameworks.

Dr. Ibraheem Sheerah
Senior Consultant

Managing Disruptive Projects Using Business Analytics & Big Data

Why would any organization need analytics for managing projects?

Organizations face problems of uncertainty rising from extended projects life cycles, complex structures, and subtle risks. On the other hand, opportunity rises from the abundance of unused performance 'BIG-data'. Analytics uses that opportunity to tackle these problems offering a robust and reliable solution to the control dilemma.

Dr. Ibrahim Kebbe
PhD, BE, ME, PMP, PMI-RMP
Risk & Project Management Consultant

Leadership and Team Management

"84% of organizations anticipate a shortfall of leaders in the next 5 years. 83% of organizations say it is important to develop leaders at all levels but only 5% have fully implemented development at all levels. Not surprisingly, 58% of organizations top priority is closing leadership skill gaps"
(Brandon Hall's: 2015)

Dr. Radhia Benalia
PHD, PMP, PMI-RMP, GREEN PROJECT MANAGER
Training & Development Director

Reinventing the PMO - How to Establish a Successful PMO

Why do we need a PMO? Are we directing or controlling? Transforming or Sustaining? Are the functions permanent or temporary?

Answering these questions in alignment to the strategies and challenges that face every organization, we will select one from over 10 types of PMO structures, define the role and then establish using the Organizational Development Life Cycle Framework (ODLCF).

Managing Successful Programs

Governments, International Organizations, NGOs and Corporations capitalize on program management for transforming their current status to establish sustainable operations.

To move from merely realizing project deliverables to achieving results while managing funds, vendors, resources, interdependencies and risks, program management framework is indispensable.

Portfolio Management: Selecting Beneficial Projects and Programs for Realizing Organizational Strategy

Portfolio management is about doing the right things, while project management is about doing things right.

To walk-the-talk and move from strategy setting to strategy realization and successful execution, portfolio is the missing link. This is essential for corporates and governments-alike especially the vision realization offices.
